

Bradley C. Daily, M.D.
Byron L. Grauerholz, M.D.
Gary L. Harbin, M.D.
Todd M. Herrenbruck, M.D.
Jeffrey L. Horinek, M.D.
Michael J. Johnson, M.D.
Levi W. Kindel, M.D.

Jennifer L. Alexander, APRN
Eric Jusko, PA-C, ATC
Lindsay Newton, PA-C
Amber Sawyers, PA-C, ATC

Cast Care

Call the office or return to the hospital emergency room immediately if you experience any of the following:

Extreme pain
Tightness unrelieved by elevation
Progressive swelling of fingers or toes unrelieved by elevation
Localized painful pressure
Skin burning or irritation
New or progressive numbness or tingling
Breakage or damage to your cast
A wet cast which cannot be easily dried by hair dryer

Instructions:

Keep your cast clean and dry. If it becomes wet, a blow-dryer on cool is useful in drying the padding more rapidly.
Elevate your injured extremity the first few days after your cast is applied. Elevation of your injured arm or leg above your heart is best to keep swelling down.
If you have a cast on your hand, exercise your fingers by opening and closing your fist.
If you have a cast on your foot, exercise your toes by wiggling them up and down.
DO NOT scratch under your cast. If itching is a problem, aim the hair dryer down the top of your cast and blow cool air into the cast.
Do not walk without the protection of the cast shoe, indoors or out.

Bathing:

Bathing with a cast must be done cautiously to prevent moisture from entering the cast.
If you have a cast on your arm, place a plastic bag over the cast and tape it securely around the arm, then repeat the procedure with a second bag and ring of tape around the arm. Attempt to hold the arm above the head while bathing.
If you have a cast on your leg, wrap a towel around the upper portion of the cast and then repeat the double bag and double tape as outlined above.
If any moisture enters the cast, it may be removed by use of a hair dryer on a cool setting.
If you are unable to dry your cast sufficiently, contact the office.

Cast replacements may not be covered under your insurance. Take care of your cast!**